THE TOWN

Maheshwar, the heritage town on the Narmada

Maheshwar sits on the north bank of the Narmada. It was the capital of Rani Ahilyabai Holkar, who ruled from 1767 to 1795. Her fort, temples and ghats still shape the town today.

> Stone steps down to the water, the evening aarti, boats at sunrise. A town where the river still sets the pace of the day.

WHAT MAKES MAHESHWAR SPECIAL

Ahilya Fort and the ghats
Sandstone ghats, temples and the old fort, right on the river.

Maheshwari handloom
The town's famous sarees are still woven on its looms.

A favourite film location
Bajirao Mastani, Pad Man and Dabangg 3 were shot here.

Sahastradhara, in Jalkoti
The Narmada's "thousand streams" over a rocky bed.

Ahilya Lok
A heritage project planned by MP Tourism on the Narmada bank.

Nimar countryside
Open fields, big skies and a slower pace of life.

WEEKENDS HERE

A weekend in Maheshwar

Sunrise on the Narmada
Take a boat out from the ghats as the mist lifts.

The evening aarti
Lamps on the water and bells from the temples.

The old town
Handloom sarees, local food and quiet old lanes.

THE PLAN

A gated community, planned around gardens

62 plots on about 11.8 acres, with a single gated entry. A landscaped garden runs the length of the stream, and three garden boulevards carry the green into the heart of the community.

Streamside garden
Streamside plots (19)
Garden plots (43)
Garden boulevards
40 ft roads
1 Gated entry
2 Walkway to the garden
3 Services

Gated, one entry
A single gate on its own entrance road.

40 ft roads
Paver-block roads, lined with trees.

Garden boulevards
Three streets with a planted median.

Streamside garden
About 1.5 acres, open to all residents.

Water supply
Overhead tank and tubewell (planned).

Sewage treatment
A treatment plant for the colony (planned).

Power
Electricity to every plot (planned).

Walk to the garden
A footpath from the road to the garden.

Indicative plan drawn from the land survey; stream position © OpenStreetMap contributors. Layout and amenities are proposed and subject to approval.

GREEN LIVING

Green on every street

Every plot is a short walk from the garden. A landscaped garden runs along the stream, and three boulevards have a planted median down the middle.

THE STREAMSIDE GARDEN

A garden the length of the stream

About 1.5 acres of lawns and trees along a seasonal stream on the north-west edge, open to every resident. The streamside plots back straight onto it.

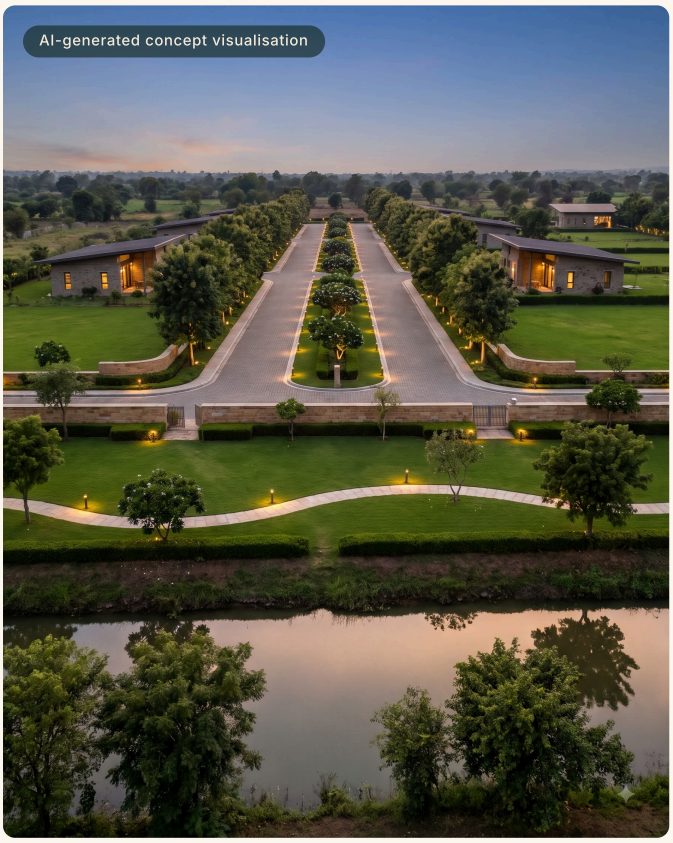

Proposed: a low check dam to hold a pool of water through the dry months, subject to approval. The picture shows this proposal, not the stream today.

Walk in from the road

A walkway leads from the road into the garden.

Lawns and native trees

Open green space to walk, sit and watch the water.

Garden boulevard at dusk. Two lanes either side of a planted median.

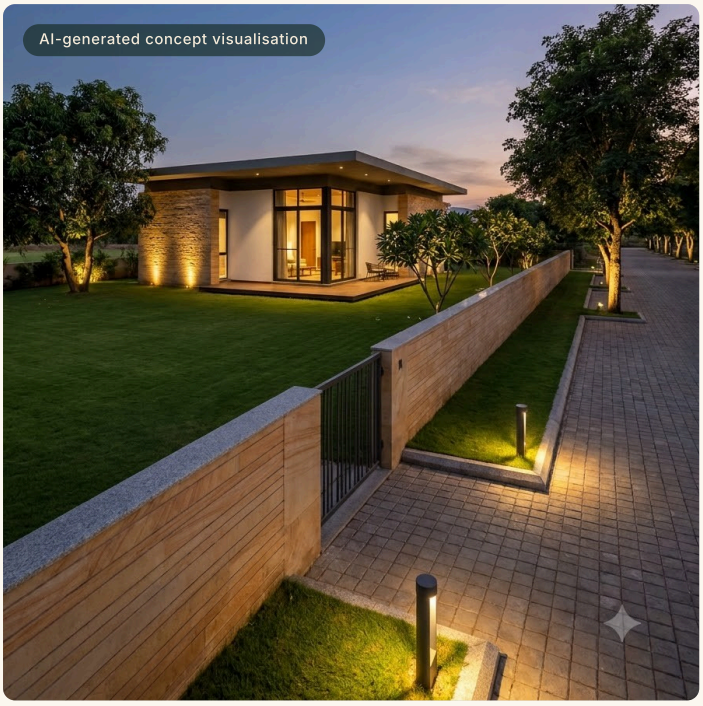

The median as a walking garden. A path, benches and flower beds between the lanes.

THE PLOTS

Build your weekend farmhouse

Buy a plot and build a cottage in your own time, to your own design, within the approved rules.

A single-storey cottage on a 45 × 90 ft plot.

Streamside plots

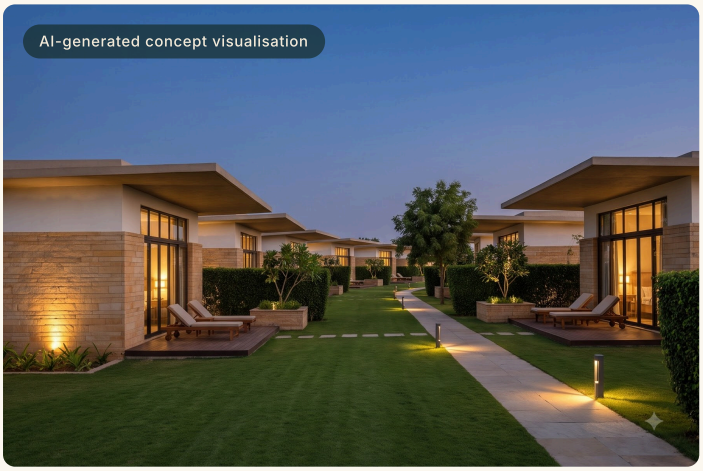

19 PLOTS · ABOUT 5,300 – 10,900 SQ FT

The largest plots, in a row along the stream. Each backs onto the landscaped garden and fronts a tree-lined road.

Garden plots

43 PLOTS · FROM ABOUT 3,600 SQ FT

23 are the classic 45 × 90 ft (4,050 sq ft). Corner plots go up to about 6,500 sq ft. Many face a garden boulevard.

NEXT DOOR

A planned resort

The front of the estate, by the main entry, is planned as a boutique resort with cottages and lawns. It is a separate project, shown here as a concept.
