MAHESHWAR · ON THE NARMADA

Where history meets the river

THE TOWN

Live in the heritage town of the Narmada

Maheshwar sits on the north bank of the Narmada. It was the capital of Rani Ahilyabai Holkar, who ruled from 1767 to 1795, and her fort, temples and ghats still shape the town today: the steps to the river, the evening aarti, the boats at sunrise.

Ahilya Fort and the ghats

Sandstone ghats, temples and the old fort on the Narmada.

Maheshwari handloom

The town's famous sarees are still woven on its looms.

A favourite film location

Bajirao Mastani, Pad Man, Dabangg 3 and Kalank were shot here.

Ahilya Lok is coming

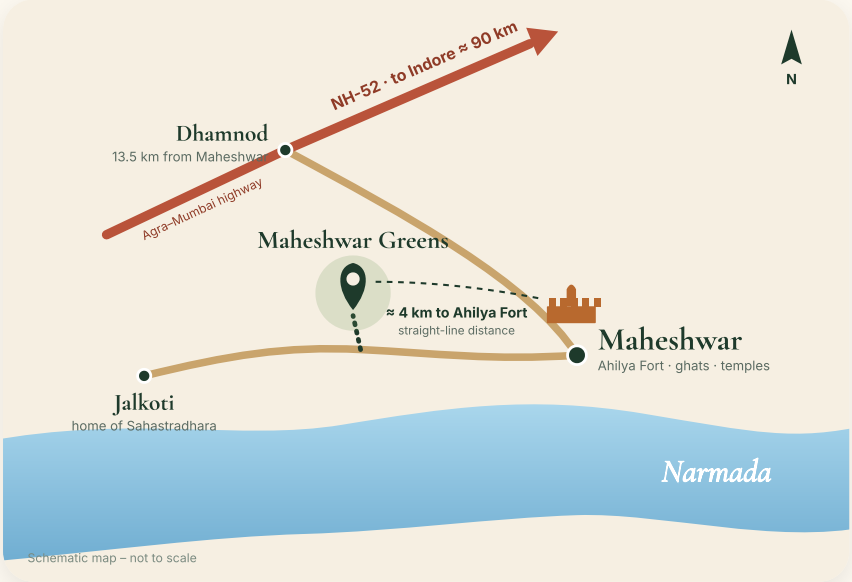

MP Tourism's ₹110 crore heritage project on the Narmada bank, planned ahead of Simhastha 2028.

Sahastradhara

The Narmada's "thousand streams" over a rocky bed, in Jalkoti village.

Nimar countryside

Open fields, big skies and a slower pace, minutes from town.

GETTING HERE

- About 4 km from Ahilya Fort, as the crow flies
- About 90 km from Indore
- Maheshwar is 13.5 km from NH-52 (Agra–Mumbai highway) at Dhamnod
- Own approach road off the Jalkoti–Maheshwar road

Distances are approximate. Driving times vary.

THE COMMUNITY

Planned around gardens and wide, tree-lined roads

A gated community of 62 plots on 11.8 acres. Every road is 40 feet wide. A landscaped garden runs the length of the stream, and garden boulevards bring the green into the heart of the colony.

1 Gated entry
2 Streamside garden
3 Garden-front plots
4 Villa plots
5 Garden boulevards
6 Walkway to the garden
7 Link road
8 Water and sewage plant

Gated, with one entry
A single gate on a dedicated approach road.

40 ft wide roads
Every road in the colony, lined with avenue trees.

Garden boulevards
Three streets with a planted median down the middle.

A 1.5-acre garden
Along the stream, open to every resident.

Water supply
Overhead tank and tubewell for the colony (planned).

Sewage treatment
A treatment plant and drainage for the colony (planned).

Power
Electricity with a transformer at the gate (planned).

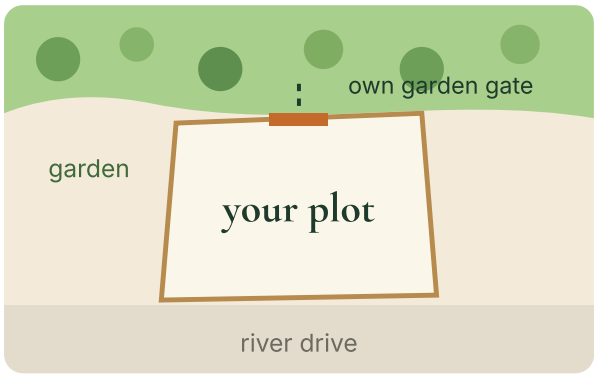

Walk to the garden
Footpath links from the river drive to the garden.

Artist's impression; not to scale. The layout and amenities are proposed and subject to approval.

THE PLOTS

Choose your plot

Two kinds of plots, both on 40 ft roads. Buy, and build your own home or weekend villa in your own time.

Garden-front plots

19 PLOTS · ABOUT 5,300 – 10,900 SQ FT

The largest plots, in a row along the stream. Each backs straight onto the landscaped garden, with its own garden gate, and fronts the tree-lined river drive.

Villa plots

43 PLOTS · FROM ABOUT 3,600 SQ FT

Most are the classic 45 × 90 ft (4,050 sq ft). Corner and special plots go up to about 6,500 sq ft. Many face a garden boulevard.

A heritage-town address

Maheshwar's ghats, fort, temples and markets close by.

Green and calm

A stream, a garden and open countryside around you.

Planned properly

Wide roads, gardens and services laid out from day one.

A town on the rise

New heritage and tourism projects are coming to Maheshwar.
